SUSTAINABILITY REPORT

GULLÓN2017

LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENCY

Dear friends,

I would like to start this letter by thanking, on behalf of myself and the Board of Directors, all of our collaborators for their active participation in the Galletas Gullón project, for their excellent work, their contribution and their continuous support in all of the joint initiatives that we undertake in pursuit of a more sustainable and scalable business.

If we look back at the messages from last year's statement, it is clear that health is Gullón's main focus. It is extremely important for us to work for the health of the population, at a time in which consumption patterns have changed. The public has observed how healthy habits and a healthy lifestyle are directly related to well-being and an increased life expectancy.

We want to offer innovation through a wide range of carefully designed products that provide increased value. We want to be acknowledged and selected by consumers as a responsible and reliable company. We have an excellent team of responsible and experienced researchers, who take great care of new launches, using the best raw materials and working alongside leading universities and technological centres. We like to be open to change and want to be able to move forward, as we demonstrated with the launch of Spain's first wholemeal biscuit, meeting the needs of increasingly demanding and well-informed consumers. The sector is facing several challenges and Gullón strives to be a driving force for change in this respect.

Continued adaptation and growth is what pushes companies to improve. In this sense, exporting abroad is a basic commitment. The knowledge that I mentioned above for the development of new products plays an even more important role here, as it is vital to be aware of the tastes and preferences of our target countries in order to forge our place on foreign markets.

Another of our main objectives is to ensure a competitive and sustainable industry. That is why Gullón continues to invest resources into its factories. We have to ensure that our company has modern and automated production lines, cutting-edge management systems and leading technologies.

Being sustainable is synonymous with being alert and open to change. Today, the new technologies provide us with the opportunity to expand at a much faster rate. Major scientific and technological advances are significantly changing the way of understanding business. It is of vital importance to remain continually up-to-date and know how to use the tools available to us to continue to stay at the forefront of the sector.

In this respect, I want to express how important it is for the authorities and society in general to provide support to education. We have to educate from childhood, not only in academic subjects, but also in terms of values and social commitment.

This year at Gullón we have been leaders in the biscuit sector with the implementation of Dual training, which benefits both the company and the student, by adapting training to the post that will be performed in the future.

Furthermore, in the field of education, Gullón has once again developed a new edition of Healthy Breakfasts, a series of workshops given in 35 schools throughout the province of Palencia, providing young school children with the necessary guidelines to maintain a healthy diet.

Therefore, over the past year, health, innovation and education have been the main areas in which Gullón has focused its efforts in terms of social responsibility.

The Group would never have achieved such results without the continued support and trust placed in our brand by our consumers. Because of this, we would like to extend our gratitude to each and every one of them. I would also like to thank our stakeholders and Gullón's exceptional staff, a young and well-trained team who have helped Gullón to forge its place as the leader of the Spanish biscuit sector, thanks to their enthusiasm and perseverance.

María Teresa Rodríguez Sainz-Rozas
President and CEO of Galletas Gullón, S.A.
